Naloxone/Narcan Training Announcement

Due to the health crisis that began this past March the Nassau County Department of Human Services decided to discontinue in person Narcan Trainings. While this is still in effect, we have developed some alternate options that we would like to share with you.

First, we are providing Narcan trainings virtually for agencies and groups that have a central facility where kits can be distributed from. This includes trainings for people never trained before, as well as, refresher classes.

Second, we are aware that people may have a need for replacement kits due to kits expiring or having been used. We recommend that if it is an urgent matter to contact your local pharmacy for quicker access to Narcan. For the other circumstances we will now be providing curbside pick-up from our office in Uniondale and we may also be able to mail kits as needed.

For further information about these two options please contact David Hymowitz at (516) 227-7023 or david.hymowitz@hhsnassaucountyny.us.

We are also providing workshops on mental health issues during the epidemic and substance related topics.

In addition, both our Behavioral Health Helpline (516) 227-TALK (8255) and the Long Island Crisis Center (516) 679-1111 have similar information on how other certified Narcan training providers are distributing and conducting trainings. Feel free to contact these helplines with any questions related to Narcan, Substance Abuse and/or Mental Health concerns, especially while we live through this crisis.
